

MAUI TEACHERS TURN OUT TO ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL MEETING

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondent)

WAILUKU, Maui, Nov. 30.—The annual meeting of the Maui Teachers' Association was held at the Wailuku school on Wednesday this week. It was the most largely attended session in years. Everyone present was most enthusiastic in its praise. The papers were unusually good, and well read, which added much pleasure to their presentation. The musical part of the program was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Jones sang twice and David Kapahimohewa once. For his encore he was joined by Minamini Brown and Moses Kaahumahu in a trio that was much appreciated.

All the papers of the day were well worth hearing. Perhaps one of the most practical was that by Miss Lida Crickard, principal of the Wailuku school. The last portion, which is quoted below, was of great help to the teachers present:

A Few Don't's.

Don't break your word to your pupils. If you promise anything, whether pleasure or punishment, be sure to fulfill that promise.

Don't scold, threaten or "rag." It is seldom necessary to reprimand a pupil in the presence of the school.

Don't get excited.

Don't see everything that happens.

The pupils may be having a little innocent pleasure in no way harmful to discipline—and they object to being watched like so many animals.

Don't ridicule. You only arouse anger and resentment in the child who thinks things about you, and would say them—if he dared.

Don't try to discipline another teacher's pupils while visiting her room. Confine your efforts to your own pupils.

Don't scream at your pupils. Your voice may be music to your own ears—but have compassion on the others who cannot leave their duty and run away.

Don't pound the desks with ruler, pointer, etc. The first whack may bring a momentary pause—but don't be deceived. It is only the lull that precedes the storm—and as you are only one against the combined forces of many, they will succeed in making more noise than you can at your best. Don't talk all the time. Some teachers, like "The Brook," simply go on forever. Their everlasting chatter fills the recitation period, and so absorbed are they in the sound of their own voice that they fail to see the theatrical performance in the rear of the room. Is it any wonder that those pupils are not up to standard grade when promoted?

So, I say, don't talk all the time. Give the pupils a chance and results will be better.

The complete program was as follows:

Singing of America.

Roll call.

Class demonstration conversational English by Miss Dunn.

School discipline by Miss Crickard.

Vocal solo by Miss Jones.

Montessori method by Mrs. Cooper.

The personality of the teacher by Mrs. Boyum.

Physiology by Miss Couch.

Vocal trio, Messrs. Kaubimhu, Kapahimohewa and Brown.

Causes of lack of interest by Mr. Case.

Industrial training by Mr. Raymond.

Drawing by Miss Hubbard.

First steps in penmanship by Mr. Copeland.

The Panama Canal by Mr. Hardy.

LAD DROWNED ON WINDWARD OAHU

Deputy Sheriff Rose received a telephone message this morning to the effect that a little boy had drowned in a stream near Waikane, on windward Oahu. No particulars as to name or nationality were received.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the deputy sheriff of Koolapoko district, who will institute inquiries and conduct an inquest.

Manuel Padinas, assassin of Premier Canlejas of Spain, worked at Hampa, Fla., several months last winter as a sign painter and decorator.

OAHU ROLLERS DEFEAT KAUAI

Interisland League.

Oahu	18	17	7	.722
Kauai	18	8	10	.444
Oahu	18	8	10	.444
Kamamias	18	7	11	.333

Results of the Oahu-Kauai bowling match of last Wednesday, which reached here too late for publication on today's sporting page, show that the Oahu took all three from the Garden Islanders, jumping into a tie for second place with Kauai. This puts the local team into the running, although it is still five full games behind the Maui leaders.

Above is the correct standing of the league to date, the scores of last Wednesday's rolling being as follows:

RED CROSS SEALS SELL LIKE HOT CAKES ON STREETS

"Give me twenty thousand more stamps, please," was the ultimatum delivered to James A. Rath, distributor of the Red Cross Seals this morning after the ladies of the College Club had been canvassing the city for just two hours. The committee head who made the demand then promptly went out and completed the sale of her allotment, reporting by noon that the thirty thousand first given to her had likewise been disposed of.

The demand for the stamps this morning proved larger than the College Club committee had hoped for and it is now considered fairly certain that the larger part of the 400, 000 stamps now here will be sold in the city itself. After the leaders had checked up at noon it was found that the ten districts had been better organized than was thought.

The committee heads had enlisted quite a host of energetic salesmen. A number of McKinley High School and Normal School girls invaded the business districts early and prosperous merchants who had expected to do quite a large Christmas correspondence discovered that they would have to do just twice as much as expected before the young ladies were through talking.

The unwary pedestrians who had just blown in from the Fiji Islands and thought perhaps that he would drop a line to his friend, the waterfront officer who shipped him out to Sydney, just to show that he held

'TRUTH AND THE GOLDEN RULE' IS S. B. DOLE'S TOPIC

"Truth and the Golden Rule" was the subject of the address given by Judge Sanford B. Dole, the orator of the day at the Elks' memorial services held at the Hawaiian Opera House yesterday afternoon. He spoke in part, as follows:

"When Jesus was asked by Pilate, 'What is truth?' although probably better qualified than any one to answer the question, He made no reply. The dictionaries have made a try at it, but have left much to be desired. But there is in the heart of man, whether educated or ignorant, whether civilized or savage, a recognition of vital truth. The soul back of the mind perceives without training, through the light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world, what is true and what is false in the great issues of life.

The aboriginal Hawaiians had their ethics, used in the same relation to conduct and to questions as our English word truth is used. They had pono and hewa, the good and the bad, and many other words relative to conduct. The real man is respected by all—by those even who do not respect themselves or who may dislike him. They cannot help it. The judgment of the soul is master. The misallotment of the drama: The relation of cause and effect in the story of life in its deeper problems cannot be safely set aside with the expectation of their applause. Mankind may not be able to answer Pilate's question, but it recognizes truth at sight.

It is probably possible for every normal person of Honolulu upon waking, some morning, to make up his or her mind to follow the Golden Rule for that day in every relation to others and to carry out such a resolution without hard feelings towards that gentleman, was induced to buy enough stamps to flood his native village.

There will be a conference of the committee this evening to check up the day's work and see if any of "us" have by chance been overlooked. The canvass of the city will continue tomorrow and Wednesday.

stantially well for one day. If this is done, it will be easier to do it through the next day, and so on. There are undoubtedly some who do this now with fair success. Establishing the will to do this is character; the doing it is conduct. How clearly the one is the foundation of the other! What great results spring from the harmonious combination of these two things! Let us suppose that some day all normal persons of this community begin and carry out such a program and keep it up the next day and the next indefinitely. As the days go on would we not begin to notice a perceptible change in the atmosphere of the place? After a week of this policy people would begin to wonder what had happened to the social and business spirit of Honolulu.

"Is the millennium impossible? I have been accustomed to hearing in religious meetings, prayers that God would pour out His spirit upon the world and revive his work among men, as if it were up to God to do something rather better than He had been doing. I should like to suggest without dogmatizing that the silent and effective influence of the Supreme Being is always abroad and about us and within our reach, like the winds of heaven or the sunshine on a bright day; we may raise our umbrellas or shut ourselves up in houses and then when we suffer for want of light and air we can hardly pray that more sunlight and more air be given the world we only have to open the doors and blinds or go out of the house. So it is up to us to open our hearts to the divine influences, and see to it that the race for wealth the quest for fame, the pursuit of pleasure or any of the passing interests of life shall not shut out these greater things that are waiting for us.

"If the happy golden age is ever to come, when all shall have opportunity to make their way, when brotherly love shall be universal, when justice shall be done to all and when equal rights shall really belong to every person, it must be through more united and consecrated effort by the makers of public sentiment and world over, urged on by the obligations of inherent personal character. God is all the time doing His share of the work."

Y. M. C. A. PLANNING ANOTHER LADIES' NIGHT
So successful was the last affair and so urgent have been the requests for another one, that the doors of the Young Men's Christian Association will be thrown open in observance of another grand Ladies Night next Friday evening at eight o'clock.

Under the direction of Messrs. Lan and Wisdom, an entirely different plan in the way of entertainment will take up the evening. The last time the visitors came to inspect the building and the different features, and next Friday night they will have the opportunity to see some of these principal features in action. The main event will take place in the big gymnasium where the different classes will go through their stunts, including club-swinging, drill, dancing, etc., and besides this the billiard tables and the bowling alleys will be open to all the ladies who wish to try their skill against that of their escorts. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

Admission will be by ticket, and these may be secured at the Y. M. C. A. or at the Y. W. C. A. for the asking.
